

Messy Research in Applied Linguistics: Methodological realities, problems and solutions when social research goes awry

この度、イギリス・ロンドン大学の Jim McKinley 准教授をお招きし、応用言語学における質的研究法に関する講演会を開催します。ぜひご参加下さい。

Dr. Jim McKinley

Associate Professor of TESOL and Applied Linguistics,
University College London Institute of Education,
University of London

This talk highlights the messy reality of applied linguistics research that bridges other social disciplines. The talk aims to provide novice and experienced researchers alike with an overview of the realities of doing interdisciplinary social research in applied linguistics and offers advice on overcoming similar methodological problems.

Dr. Jim McKinley is an associate professor of TESOL and applied linguistics at UCL Institute of Education, University of London, where he serves as director of the MA TESOL Pre-Service programme. His interests are research methods, second language writing, and internationalization of higher education. He is a co-editor of the journal System as well as the Cambridge University Press Elements series 'Language Teaching', and is an author and editor of several books on research methods in applied linguistics including Data Collection Research Methods in Applied Linguistics (Bloomsbury, 2020), The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods in Applied Linguistics (Routledge, 2020), and Doing Research in Applied Linguistics: Realities, Dilemmas and Solutions (Routledge, 2017).
